This document was culminated with the intention of concentrating and expanding on the intentions and goals of the team with regards to the cooperation of the members within the team and the fellow CAMP teams.

Commitment and Professionalism

Team members practice commitment and professionalism in every aspect of the work they perform and their lives. Every member of the team understands the effect our actions have on the opinions of ourselves and the people around us. Therefore, the team always works hard, shares knowledge and responsibility, focuses on the task at hand, remains knowledgeable of the events and projects of the team, and works for the gain of knowledge and not for the gain of wealth. The commitment and professional behavior of the members define us as a group and as a team.

Respect and honor

Members of the UAV team hold respect and honor in the highest regards within the team and outside the team. Respect begins with respect for oneself. When someone doesn’t take care of themselves, such as acting safely, getting rest and following the law, they cannot show respect or be shown respect. The team shows respect to themselves and to others by keeping their word, dedicating themselves to their projects, expressing comments or questions, taking pride in the team, helping other in need, and considering the feelings of others and effects on others of our projects.

Most of all, members of UAV have faith and pride in our team, CAMP, our school and the world. By coming together the team is capable of having fun and changing the world.
