In limited circumstances, the University approves students for special housing accommodations based on medical need and/or disability status. If you have special needs that make it necessary to have a specific type of housing, please be sure to follow these steps:

1. Submit a housing application through the Residence Life website (sdsmt.edu/reslife).
2. Provide the University with a completed Special Housing Accommodation Form (found below).
3. Provide the University with detailed supporting documentation that meets the University's documentation criteria. Questions about documentation should be directed to the ADA Office.
4. For returning students: a maximum of four roommates (including yourself) may be included in a Special Housing Accommodation Petition.

Please note that residential housing is not a distraction-reduced environment. Accordingly, students are not granted housing accommodations for learning or attention disabilities. Students who need distraction-reduced study environments should speak with the staff in the ADA Office or the Student Success Center.

Students with environmental allergens are permitted to purchase and bring allergen-proof fabric covers for bedding, a dehumidifier and/or HEPA filter air purifier. Generally, housing accommodations are not granted for environmental allergens. Students with allergies are encouraged to visit the American Academy of Allergy, Asthma & Immunology website for specific tips & support at: www.aaaai.org.
