

Residential Peer Mentor

Position Agreement 2022-2023

The Residential Peer Mentor (RPM) is an integral member of the Department of Residence Life at South Dakota Mines. The RPM serves as an important academic resource within an assigned residential community. The RPM serves residents by employing peer tutoring, providing mentorship, and by facilitating academic growth. The RPM helps develop a positive residential community, promotes belonging, encourages educational growth, and models responsible decision-making.

Types of Residential Peer Mentor Positions

Four types of RPMs are employed by the Department of Residence Life and are directly supervised by a director, professional staff, or graduate student of the department for the 2022-2023 academic year. All RPMs serve as community peer mentors in an assigned community and are members of a staff.

- Community Living RPMs: Community Living RPMs typically work with first- and second- year residents with shared common areas, amenities, and single and double occupancy style rooms. Community Living RPMs typically have multiple tutoring locations and facilitate educational interventions in multiple communities.
- Interest Community RPMs: Interest Community RPMs are expected to collaborate with on campus liaisons or partners and foster a positive residential community through the defined interest identity of the community. Interest Community RPMs typically work with first-year residents in double, triple, and quad occupancy rooms and suite style rooms. Interest Community RPMs typically have one tutoring location and facilities specific educational interventions to the community in conjunction with a community liaison.
- Suite Style Community RPMs: Suite Style Community RPMs typically work with second year and transfer student populations in suite style rooms. Suite Style Community RPMs typically have one tutoring location and facilities scaffolded educational interventions to the community.
- Mixed Community RPMs: Mixed Community RPMs typically work with both first- and second- year student populations in a mixture of community living and suite-style community expectations. Mixed Community RPMs typically have multiple tutoring locations and facilitate different educational interventions in multiple communities.
